

立命館大学経営学部国際経営分野研究会

SIEM Cross-Cultural Management Research Meeting

■ Date & Time [日時] : Friday, 13th Jan. 2012, 16:00 ~ 18:00

■ Location [場所] : Epoch21 [エポック] K306

■ Presenter 1:

Ms. Ming (Lily) LI, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor, Department of Management and Organization, ESC Rennes
School of Business (フランス)

Presentation title:

“Nurture versus Nature: The Development of Cultural Intelligence in Global Leaders”

■ Presenter 2:

Mr. Weiwei JI (吉偉偉)

PhD student, Faculty of Business Administration
(立命館大学経営学研究科 博士課程後期課程)

Presentation title:

“Business Networks and Local Adjustment: Theoretical Approaches, Empirical Evidence”

18:00-20:00 Onabe party at the International Exchange Room of Epoch21

(Please register by Jan. 5th, 2012; Cost: 1,500 Yen)

For further information contact

Dr. Rolf D. Schlunze (Head of SIEM) Professor of Cross-Cultural Management at Ritsumeikan University, Department of International Business Administration

<info@siemrg.org >

主催：立命館大学経営学研究機構
後援：日本学術振興会、日本古典研究会

Introducing:

MING (Lily) Li is an assistant professor at the Department of Management and Organisation at the ESC Rennes School of Business in Rennes, France. She earned her Master's and Ph.D. degrees in management at the Michael Smurfit School of Business, University College Dublin, Ireland and her Bachelor of Science degree from the Management School of Shanghai Jiaotong University in China. Her major research interests are on the competencies of global managers in managing cultural challenges in different business environments. She is co-editor of the book in volumes Advances in Global Leadership (Emerald). Previously she has been engaged in research and consulting activities with the China Europe International Business School and Mobley Group Pacific, Ltd. She has also delivered workshops in the area of global leadership as part of the Executive Leadership Program for senior ranks of the Irish Police, China Europe International Business School (CEIBS) MBA and Executive Education programs and conducted company customized workshops for Johnson & Johnson, Michelin, etc. Her doctoral dissertation has been awarded as the runner-up for the Best Dissertation Award from the Global Leadership Advancement Center (GLAC) at San Jose State University, US and a distinguished dissertation of the 2010 Thesis Competition at the European Doctoral Programmes Association in Management and Business (EDAMBA). Her research had been presented at international conferences such as Academy of Management meeting, Academy of International Business meeting, Academy of Applied Psychology meeting, etc. e-mail: <lily-ming.li@esc-rennes.fr>

JI (Kichi) Weiwei is an excellent Ph.D. candidate in Graduate School of Business Administration of Ritsumeikan University. He received his B.S. from Soochow University and his M.A. from Ritsumeikan University. His research is sponsored by the Japanese government and the Foundation for Entrepreneurship Studies. He is innovative in creating new insights about managerial behavior investigating various business networks from a spatial perspective. His PhD work includes study on Chinese business expansion in Japan and international business in China. His research had been presented at international conference within Geography and Management Science such as the annual meeting of Association of American Geographers (AAG) and Euro-Asia Management Studies Association (EAMSA). e-mail: <gr003072@ed.ritsumei.ac.jp>